

artnet® news

From Shepard Fairey Skateboards to Joe Namath Paintings, Art New York Caters to Celeb-Hungry Collectors

Eileen Kinsella, May 4, 2018

At Frankfurt gallery Barbara Von Stechow, where works ranged in price from $4,000 to $30,000, we chatted with artist Tom Christopher, famed for his urban, New York-centric streetscapes. He explained that his recent work, I'll Stand Here All Day Because I Know I'm Not Alone (2017), grew out of a combination of his love for tattoo art, which he collects, and his penchant for standing on street corners and sketching people while catching snippets of conversation. The title, he says, was inspired by the mutterings of a dogged flyer distributor being ignored by the crowds rushing past him.

*Tom Christopher, I'll Stand Here All Day Because I Know I'm Not Alone. (2017)
Courtesy the artist and Galerie Barbara Von Stechow, Frankfurt.*

See the full article here courtesy of ArtNet